Fair Haven Boarding House Keeper Testifies in Trial of Giovanni Marino for Alleged Murder.

Rutland, April 28.-The State put in the most important part of its case in Rutland county court to-day in the trial of Giovanni Murino of Fair Haven, under indictment for the alleged murder of Angelo Glolo by stabbing at Mrs. Luigia Pettl's boarding house on February 6, 1915. The jury heard the evidence of Petti and her daughter, Mrs. mportance A number of photographs of the surundings were introduced in the case and the Jury was shown Glolo's heart, wice plerced by a knife, and now in a reservative in a transparent glass jar. The first witness to-day was Charles Vood, a neighbor of Mrs. Petti. He testified to seeing footprints on the roof of a shed connected with the rear of the boarding house. He was there on the morning of February 6 and Mrs. Petti told him that they (Glolo and Marino) had had trouble. He saw Giolo after he
